Top Notch Welding Services is a certified minority-owned welding and fabrication company based in Randallstown, Maryland. Founded in 2020 by Kevin Williams, with his wife Martina by his side, the company has grown from a shared vision into a trusted provider of structural steel installation, mobile welding, ornamental and architectural metalwork, demolition support, sandblasting, and welding repairs. The firm also provides residential services, including custom metal handrails, stairs, porches, and security guards for windows and AC units. The team holds AWS D1.1 and D1.5 certifications and is certified as an MBE, DBE, and SBE with both the State of Maryland and Baltimore City.

Martine Jones has more than 20 years of experience in dealership management, finance, and business operations. She built a reputation for driving rapid growth and doubling dealership profits in short turnaround times. She also worked in the banking sector as a Loan Processor and Funding Specialist, strengthening her skills in financial accuracy and compliance, and has led impactful radio and social media campaigns. Today, Martina serves as Finance Manager and Operating Manager of King Motors and leads Credit Smarts, where she trains entrepreneurs opening or scaling dealerships in sales, finance, BDC operations, and software platforms. In addition, she serves as Ownership Director of Top Notch Welding Services, overseeing administrative, legal, and operational functions to ensure precision, compliance, and client-focused professionalism.
